Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 24 Oct 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Some patchy rain later today. Showery on Monday.

Today:
A dry but largely cloudy start. A few brighter spells should develop ahead of thicker cloud and patchy rain moving into western counties later in the afternoon. Breezy, but feeling quite warm in any brightness. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Tonight:
Patchy rain will move east across all parts through the evening. Clear spells and the odd shower following on for the remainder of the night. Remaining mild overnight. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Monday:
A bright start for many, though showers will steadily develop through the morning. Perhaps a few heavier, even thundery showers later in the afternoon. Still breezy and mild. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Largely dry through the midweek period with bright or sunny spells interspersed with cloudier conditions. Windy on Wednesday and Thursday, but very mild by day and overnight.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.